Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Article 33(1)-(4) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement.

The present claims are considered to meet the requirements of Article 33(1) - (4) PCT.

The Closest prior art is DE4408034 which discloses a method for the mass-spectrometric (MALDI) analysis of 2-D gel electrophoretic protein samples involving transferring proteins, preferably via electroblotting, via a hydrophilic membrane (PVDF) to a matrix membrane suitable for MALDI analysis. In specific embodiments the proteins are enzymatically cleaved during the transfer of the proteins to the matrix (equivalent to the one-step digestion transfer (OSDT) in the prior art acknowledgement of the description).

The claimed invention (claims 10-21) differs in that it is limited to embodiments in which (proteolytic) cleavage of the sample proteins occurs for a first time in the gel and a second time on the hydrophilic membrane on which a second cleaving reagent is immobilised.

Present claim 10 appears to solve the underlying technical problem of providing an improved OSDT process known in the art by introducing a further digestion step. It could not be contemplated from the state of the art that the results, i.e. allowing analysis of strongly basic proteins and large MW proteins, could be obtained by introducing the second digestion step.

Claims 1-10 refer to kits limited to the presence of the two digestive reagents, one of which is immobilised to a hydrophilic membrane, and to the presence of the two membranes needed to perform the invention (one hydrophilic, one hydrophobic). These kits are needed to perform the invention and as such follow the fate of the method claims.

(54) Title: METHOD AND KIT FOR IDENTIFYING OR CHARACTERISING POLYPEPTIDES
(57) Abstract Polypeptides which have been separated by gel electrophoresis can be identified or characterised by a procedure which has two main stages. In the first stage the gel is digested with a polypeptide-cleaving agent such as an enzyme. This produces mainly large fragments which, in the second stage are electroblotted through a hydrophilic membrane on which is immobilised another polypeptide-cleaving reagent such as an enzyme onto a hydrophobic member, typically a membrane, e.g. of PVDF. The resulting fragments, usually peptides, are identified, preferably by MALDI-TOF MS, or a property may be determined, e.g. by interaction with an antibody.
